Dear Colleagues :

It is a pleasure for me to welcome you to the 3rd International Conference on Vaccines Research and Development in the exciting city of Amsterdam. It follows on a successful meeting in Munich in 2024. Once again, we shall have a group of cutting-edge investigators that will cover a broad range of topics relevant to current vaccine usage, ways to improve them and the gathering reluctance to employ a strategy that has been the most successful and cost-effective means of controlling infectious diseases and some cancers. Among the topics to be addressed include: Broadening the Scope of Virus-Like Particles (VLPs) and Antigen-Based Platforms for Human and Veterinary Diseases, Influenza Vaccination of Patients with Autoimmune Rheumatic Disease: Platforms of Fourth Generation Adenoviral Vectors for Vaccines and Applications Beyond; Exploring Whole Genome Sequencing: Contributions and Challenges in Reducing Viral Diseases; The Importance of HPV Vaccine in the Low-Income Female Population: The Flexible, Versatile and Fast GreGT Platform of Fully Deleted Helper-Virus Independent Adenoviral Vectors: the use of Metal-Coated Magnetic Iron Oxide Nanoparticles for Antimycobacterial Applications and how to manage viral disease where immunity against the infection is causing the problem. Other topics to be covered will be to discuss the causes and possible solutions for vaccine hesitancy: Exploring the Antimycobacterial Potential of Repurposed Drugs: The Implementation of strategic plasma resource self-sufficiency through unpaid plasma donations on the global plasma market; the concept of Decolonising Vaccination - Rights Based Indigenous Approaches to Vaccination and Ideas for Surveillance Systems and Prevention Measures that Address Indigenous Inequities and Advantage all Populations and what needs done to use vaccines more effectively.

The aim of this conference is to bring together a rich diversity of researchers and industrial professionals to present novel conceptual frameworks on a wide range of topics for addressing scientific, medical, and business issues essential to shaping the future of vaccination.
