About Conference

The 3rd International Conference on Nursing and Health Care (NURSING-2026) will be held on July 27-28, 2026, in Prague, Czech Republic, and will convene distinguished researchers, clinicians, educators, and healthcare professionals from around the world. This premier event is designed to facilitate the exchange of scientific knowledge, the presentation of advanced research, and the development of meaningful professional collaborations. The program will feature keynote addresses by leading experts, high-quality oral and poster sessions, and focused workshops aimed at enhancing clinical practice, educational excellence, and leadership capabilities within the nursing profession. NURSING-2026 will address a broad range of critical topics, including oncology and critical care, community and primary healthcare, patient safety and quality improvement, healthcare innovation, and advancements in nursing education. Set against the historic and culturally rich backdrop of Prague, the conference offers an exceptional environment for learning, networking, and professional growth. We welcome your participation in this distinguished gathering and look forward to your contributions to advancing the future of nursing and healthcare.
